b. Caveats and Education, Part 2 – Doug Campbell

Vice-Chairperson O’Neal has requested the records to state in these meeting minutes that: According to Article VI, Section 4 of the Rules & Regulations Governing Procedure of the Tulsa Preservation Commission (TPC) (Sec. 1052.H) that the Chairperson allows five (5) minutes for an applicant to present his/her comments/presentation to the Commission.

Chairperson O’Neal announced that the next agenda item on the agenda was Caveats and Education, Part 2 by Doug Campbell. Chairperson O’Neal informed Mr. Campbell that he had five (5) minutes to present his presentation to the Commission.

Doug Campbell introduced himself to the Commission. He thanked the Commission for giving him the opportunity to address it; and he thanked the Commission for recently honoring the Wallace Engineering Building in the Brady Heights District.

Mr. Campbell stated that he would like to relate to the Commission about his personal experience over the past few years and offer some suggestions that he feel would help.

Mr. Campbell stated that some of them knew that in February, 2005 that he paid a visit to the office of the Tulsa Preservation Commission to inquire about a vacant lot at 1608 South Detroit. He stated that he had been told by realtors that the City of Tulsa did not show the property within the HP overlay zoning. Mr. Campbell stated that the TPC staff, at the time, emphatically confirmed that the property was not within the HP overlay, and provided maps and legal descriptions published by the TPC and the City of Tulsa website which also displayed the information.

Mr. Campbell stated that three (3) weeks after he had purchased the property that he received a call from the same TPC staff stating that the TPC maps and legal descriptions were incorrect. That according to INCOG, that the property had been zoned HP in 1993. Mr. Campbell stated that this was the beginning of a period lasting over two (2) years that was very unsettling and costly for him. He stated that he is happy to report that he finally sold the Property this past month. He sold the property for what he had paid for it originally. Mr. Campbell stated that it cost him approximately $20,000.00 in closing cost, legal and architectural fees, taxes, maintenance, and interest expense, as well as lost productivity and many sleepless nights.

Mr. Campbell stated that he went into this experience with the illusion that government was fair; and had the best interest of citizens at heart. He added that he suppose at this point that he is also celebrating a healthy loss of naivete’. Mr. Campbell stated that he has spent over 35 years of his design career working on the renovation and restoration of historic properties in Tulsa and elsewhere, including Villa Philbrook, the Philtower, the Skelly and McBirney Mansions, and Harwelden, to name just a few. He stated that he has never personally owned a structure built after 1927; and that he knows and understands historic properties. He firmly believes in preserving and reinvigorating worth historic structures.

Mr. Campbell expressed his interest to the Commission about the first meeting that he had attended of the TPC in April, 2005 regarding another applicant’s proposal requesting to place a sidewalk with a curve in his front yard by stating that historic sidewalks don’t have curves. Mr. Campbell believes that the applicant was being chastised by one of the commission members, even though the applicant’s proposal was approved. He believes that this was a case of misinformed commissioner, stating his opinion, not based on fact, since a quick tour of North Maple Ridge would prove otherwise. Mr. Campbell stated that the staff and the members of the commission at the time sat mute giving creditability to his comments. He said that he knew then there was a problem.

Mr. Campbell stated that this spring, a seasoned Real Estate agent with a major firm in Tulsa called him and asked him if he was interested in purchasing a house that she had just listed in the 1600 block of South Madison. Mr. Campbell explained to her that he wasn’t interested in owning anything with HP overlay. He stated that the Real Estate agent emphatically stated that the property was not in Maple Ridge; but that it was in Morningside Addition. Mr. Campbell stated that he told her that might be true, but the property was in HP overlay zoning, and of that he was very sure. Mr. Campbell came to realize that the listing Realtor agent for this property didn’t have a clue what HP overlay zoning was, much less the significance of owning a piece of property with overlay restrictions. Mr. Campbell stated that after he had this conversation with the Realtor that he feels strongly that all Tulsa Realtors should be fully informed as to HP overlay zoning so that any buyers in the future do not experience what he has over the past two years.

Mr. Campbell stated that he was very happy to see that the new and improved TPC website has zoning caveats and links to INCOG maps and information. He added that he would have never purchased his vacant lot had he been given the correct zoning information by the TPC staff at the time or the realtors involved, or if he had simply been referred to INCOG. Mr. Campbell stated that he has learned much from this process and as a citizen has a few suggestions:
◊ To plead with the TPC to make a difference by working with the Realtors Association and the City to educate realtors and the public about the extent and implications of HP overlay zoning; &
◊ To plead with the TPC to educate the TPC members and staff to what progressive, thriving cities are doing in regard to coexistence of new construction within historical areas.

Mr. Campbell stated that he hope we do not fossilize Tulsa, like a certain Belvedere, and perhaps in the process contribute further to the decay of our inner core. Stewardship requires vigilance. He closed his presentation by asking the Commission to please make a positive difference for the future of our city.

Chairperson O’Neal asked the Commission if it had any questions or comments for Mr. Campbell regarding to his presentation.

Professional Real Estate Commissioner Hodgson, stated that he would like to comment on the Realtor’s point of view. Commissioner Hodgson stated that, in fact, they have made the improvements on the website for public site. He stated that he and staff have made an effort for (realtor) membership to be aware of all the information that they have available. Commissioner Hodgson stated that maps are also available on the Tulsa Preservation Commission website.

Commissioner Hodgson stated that there are over 4,000 real estate agents in Tulsa, and when meetings are scheduled to update these agents about historic preservation, HP overlay zoning, etc., that only 30-40 agents show up. Commissioner Hodgson stated that Mr. Campbell’s experience has brought some exposure to this matter; although they’re trying to make every effort to get the information out to the public.

Commissioner Hodgson stated that the brokers are really responsible for the training of their individual sales associates. He stated that there are a number of over 400 brokers in Tulsa; and that more than half of those 400 brokerages are one-man shops. Commissioner Hodgson stated that we just have to understand that most of the transactions are done by the larger brokerage companies that have more active sales associates. He stated that the larger brokerage companies deal with the public that actually do brokerage rather than to deal with their own rights compared to what the smaller brokers do. He stated that they will continue to have their meetings twice a year; and that the brokers are scheduled to have twice a year training sessions to inform their sales associates on the most current information in real estate.

Commissioner Hodgson stated that there is a 3-page State required disclosure document that any property that is involved in any transfer with the involvement from a licensed realtor is information that can be found on this document. He stated that the only responsibility that the sales associate has when selling a piece of property to the new owner(s) is to make sure that the seller has the document to fill out. Commissioner Hodgson stated that it’s not the sales associate’s position to even determine if this document is completely filled out; or if it’s accurately filled out. Commissioner Hodgson believes that this disclosure document should be filled out completely and accurately; but that most of the time, it’s not. Commissioner Hodgson assured Mr. Campbell that MLS will continue to make every effort on his part to get the information out to the public about HP overlay zoning and other important information about historic preservation.

Commissioner Bergman thanked everyone for their comments. She stated that one of the things that they’re doing in the Outreach Committee is putting together programs that they can do for Outreach, specifically for realtors, as well as for homeowners to give them better education. Commissioner Bergman stated that they are going to start this program very soon. She stated that they are going to have speakers go to some of the realtor companies and show them what HP overlay zoning is; and why it’s important for them (the realtor) to let the homeowner know about HP overlay zoning.

Commissioner Fritz stated that he believes that all of this is good and important; but that he doesn’t believe anything would have helped Mr. Campbell’s case. He stated that in all the years that he has served on this board that he has never been asked to step outside his role as a commissioner, except when the Mayor’s Office asked him to. Commissioner Fritz stated that the Mayor asked him to work directly with Mr. Campbell to help him. He stated that it all boiled down to the properties that Mr. Campbell purchased thinking that these properties were not in the HP overlay zoning when he was told that they were not, according to the map, but they were included. Commissioner Fritz stated that the only thing that could have helped Mr. Campbell at that time was a correct map showing that the properties were included.

Commissioner Townsend stated that the point is well taken; and that she believes that we need more realtor education.

c. Rules & Regulations –
Commissioner Gilmore reported that the ordinance regarding the INCOG maps has been filed with the Tulsa County Court Clerk Office. He stated that any time that a property is sold in the HP overlay zoning area that that will now be included with the abstract. Commissioner Gilmore stated that if the buyer has an attorney, that by law, the attorney will have to examine the abstract and inform the buyer if the property is located in an HP overlay zoning area. Commissioner Gilmore stated that at this point, all the HP zoned districts are now filed and this information should be available in the abstract.

d. Program Planning & Neighborhood Conservation –
David Breed, Liaison for Southwest Historic Society and Red Fork Main Street stated that two (2) years ago Southwest Tulsa Chamber Historical Society had applied to go through the process to become a Main Street program in an urban setting, which there are three (3) that exist in Oklahoma City. He stated that the State Capital approved their application on June 1, 2007. Mr. Breed stated that a Red Fork Main Street Program Manager was hired; her name is Katie Davis; and that he will invite Ms. Davis to the next TPC meeting for the Commission to have the opportunity to meet her.

Mr. Breed stated that in September, 2007, an office will be established on Southwest Blvd., for the Red Fork Main Street program. He stated that the new program manager and members of the board then attended, as it is required, two (2) or more days of the Statewide Historic Preservation Conference in early June, 2007; and TPS staff met Ms. Davis at that time. He stated that there was the Statewide Basic Training for new Main Street Programs in late June, 2007 in Oklahoma City; and last Monday night (July 9, 2007) they had the on-site training in Tulsa of the Committee Training Session conducted by the Oklahoma City Main Street staff. Mr. Breed stated that they’re making progress; and that he hopes that the Commission will be hearing more about the new Main Street program on weeks to months ahead.

Commissioner Ball reported that the Outreach Committee will be meeting tomorrow (07-13-2007) morning; and that everyone is welcome to join them.

i. Discussion of presentation to EDC – Rex Ball

Commissioner Ball stated that he met with Don Himelfarb, the Economic Development Manager of the City of Tulsa. He stated that they discussed that they were trying to present to the public; and to the groups that he represent a positive aspects of their efforts opposed to those things that are negative. Commissioner Ball stated that he had related to Mr. Himelfarb that he had had the same conversation with the editorial of the Tulsa World and that their conversation had gone well.

Commissioner Ball stated that Mr. Himelfarb suggested that the Tulsa Preservation Commission meet with his board. He stated that Ms. DeCort has a pending meeting date probably around the latter part of August, 2007 or the first of September, 2007 whenever their board may have an available meeting date because their board has pretty crowded agendas. Commissioner Ball stated that Ms. DeCort wanted to wait until they had an agenda created so that the Tulsa Preservation Commission will have time to prepare for a good presentation. He stated that the presentation has to be to the point; and that it’s no longer than fifteen minutes.

Commissioner Ball stated that he and Mr. Himelfarb wanted to start off the discussion by asking the Tulsa Preservation Commission what the Commission would like to have on the agenda. Two (2) obvious agenda items that he and Mr. Himelfarb would like to have on the agenda are:

◊ To present to the Commission the incentives that the City of Tulsa already has for working in an historical contact; &
The reasons for preservation relating to all the things that the Commission talks about regularly.

ii. Discuss Potential and Expected Demolitions

   – Rex Ball

Commissioner Ball stated that it has occurred to him that since the Commission has been asking homeowners over the City to not tear down their house or building unless they don't have any use for it; that the City of Tulsa should take the leadership of it. Commissioner Ball asked the Commission if he could have the Commission’s permission to work with the City Council to develop a resolution that would go before the City Commission. He believes that the City of Tulsa should not demolish any buildings under its ownership without having a feasibility study for its possible reuse.

Chairperson O'Neal gave Commissioner Ball permission to work with the Legal Council to develop a resolution on potential and expected demolitions in the historic neighborhood districts. No Commission action was taken on the matter.
